USL League Two and USL Academy Combine

Dear FC Tucson Youth ECNL and E64 Players and Parents,

This combine is an opportunity to be selected for the USL League 2 Western Conference Championship team and, more commonly for the youth players, the USL Academy U-20 Reserve Team. This Reserve Team would compete in the top U-20 Southwest Summer Competitive Platform against both professional and residential MLS Next training programs. The team will be showcasing FC Tucson Youth’s top performers in the 2010-2006 age groups along with selected USL League Two level players against other players with professional playing experience or career aspirations.

The combine will help us narrow down the selection for players for both FC Tucson higher-level teams. Both will play a full summer schedule. The academy will play a 10-match home and away schedule competing to win the USL Academy Southwest Conference Championship. There will be one (1) supplemental training session a week on top of the FC Tucson Youth summer training program and matches WILL NOT CONFLICT WITH ANY FC TUCSON YOUTH PROGRAMMING. There will be a large enough pool of players to account for summer travel and individual age group conflicts should a team make the ECNL playoffs. Top USL Academy performers will also be invited to train or play with the USL League Two Team throughout the summer.

There is one USL Academy match in April but the supplemental training will start the first week in May. The USL Academy Match Schedule is below:
